Case 4:08-cr-40010-LLP Document 130 Filed 02/03/2010 Page 1 of 31

Members of the jury, it is my duty to explain the rules of the law you must apply to this case. You must not single out some instructions and ignore others, because all are important.

The instructions I am about to give you now are in writing and will be available to you in the jury room. I emphasize, however, that this does not mean they are more important than my earlier instructions. Again, all instructions, whenever given and whether in writing or not, must be followed.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 3.01 (2007) (modified); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instructions No. 8.

It is your duty to find from the evidence what the facts are. You will then apply the law, as I give it to you, to those facts. You must follow my instructions on the law, even if you thought the law was different or should be different.

Do not allow sympathy or prejudice to influence you. The law demands of you a just verdict, unaffected by anything except the evidence, your common sense, and the law as I give it to you.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 3.02 (2007).

There is nothing particularly different in the way that you should consider the evidence in a trial from that in which any reasonable and careful person would treat any very important question that must be resolved by examining facts, opinions, and evidence. You are expected to use your good sense in considering and evaluating the evidence in the case for only those purposes for which it has been received and to give such evidence a reasonable and fair construction in the light of your common knowledge of the natural tendencies and inclinations of human beings.

Keep constantly in mind that it would be a violation of your sworn duty to base a verdict upon anything other than the evidence received in the case and the instructions of the Court. Remember as well that the law never imposes upon a defendant in a criminal case the burden or duty of calling any witnesses or producing any evidence because the burden of proving guilt beyond a reasonable doubt is always assumed by the government.

O'Malley, Grenig and Lee, Federal Jury Practice and Instructions, § 12.02 (5th ed. 2000) (modified).

I have mentioned the word "evidence." The "evidence" in this case consists of the testimony of witnesses, the documents and other things received as exhibits, and any facts that have been stipulated-that is, formally agreed to by the parties.

You may use reason and common sense to draw deductions or conclusions from facts which have been established by the evidence in the case.

Certain things are not evidence. I will list those things again for you now:

1. Statements, arguments, questions, and comments by lawyers representing the parties in the case are not evidence.

2. Objections are not evidence. Lawyers have a right to object when they believe something is improper. You should not be influenced by the objection. If I sustained an objection to a question, you must ignore the question and must not try to guess what the answer might have been.

3. Testimony that I struck from the record, or told you to disregard, is not evidence and must not be considered.

4. Anything you saw or heard about this case outside the courtroom is not evidence.

Finally, if you were instructed that some evidence was received for a limited purpose only, you must follow that instruction.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 3.03 (2007); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instructions No. 3.02.

There are two types of evidence which are generally presented during a trial-direct evidence and circumstantial evidence. Direct evidence is the testimony of a person who asserts or claims to have actual knowledge of a fact, such as an eyewitness. Circumstantial evidence is proof of a chain of facts and circumstances indicating the existence of a fact. The law makes absolutely no distinction between the weight or value to be given to either direct or circumstantial evidence. Nor is a greater degree of certainty required of circumstantial evidence than of direct evidence. You should weigh all the evidence in the case. After weighing all the evidence, if you are not convinced of the guilt of the defendant beyond a reasonable doubt, you must find him not guilty.

O'Malley, Grenig and Lee, Federal Jury Practice and Instructions, § 12.04 (5th ed. 2000) (modified).

In deciding what the facts are, you may have to decide what testimony you believe and what testimony you do not believe. You may believe all of what a witness said, or only part of it, or none of it.

In deciding what testimony to believe, consider the witness's intelligence, the opportunity the witness had to have seen or heard the things testified about, the witness's memory, any motives that witness may have for testifying a certain way, the manner of the witness while testifying, whether that witness said something different at an earlier time, the general reasonableness of the testimony, and the extent to which the testimony is consistent with any evidence that you believe.

In deciding whether or not to believe a witness, keep in mind that people sometimes hear or see things differently and sometimes forget things. You need to consider therefore whether a contradiction is an innocent misrecollection or lapse of memory or an intentional falsehood, and that may depend on whether it has to do with an important fact or only a small detail.

You should judge the testimony of the defendant in the same manner as you judge the testimony of any other witness.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 3.04 (2007); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instructions No. 11.

Your decision on the facts of this case should not be determined by the number of witnesses testifying for or against a party. You should consider all the facts and circumstances in evidence to determine which of the witnesses you choose to believe or not believe. You may find that the testimony of a smaller number of witnesses on one side is more credible than the testimony of a greater number of witnesses on the other side.

You have heard testimony from persons described as experts. Persons who, by knowledge, skill, training, education or experience, have become an expert in some field may state their opinions on matters in that field and may also state the reasons for their opinion.

Expert testimony should be considered just like any other testimony. You may accept or reject it, and give it as much weight as you think it deserves, considering the witness's education and experience, the soundness of the reasons given for the opinion, the acceptability of the methods used, and all the other evidence in the case.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 4.10 (2007); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instructions No. 18.

INSTRUCTION NO. _ 9_

You have heard testimony about the character and reputation of the defendant William Robert Joseph Reed for truthfulness. You may consider this evidence only in deciding whether to believe the testimony of Mr. Reed and how much weight to give it.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 4.02 (2007); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instructions No. 17.

If any reference by the Court or by counsel to matters of testimony or exhibits does not coincide with your own recollection of that evidence, it is your recollection which should control during your deliberations and not the statements of the Court or of counsel.

You are the sole judges of the evidence received in this case.

O'Malley, Grenig and Lee, Federal Jury Practice and Instructions, § 12.07 (5th ed. 2000).

If you took notes during the trial, your notes should be used only as memory aids. You should not give your notes precedence over your independent recollection of the evidence. If you did not take notes, you should rely on your own independent recollection of the proceedings and you should not be influenced by the notes of other jurors. I emphasize that notes are not entitled to any greater weight than the recollection or impression of each juror as to what the testimony may have been.

United States v. Rhodes, 631 F.2d 43, 46 n.3 (5th Cir. 1980).

You must presume that the defendant is innocent of the crimes charged. An indictment is only a formal method of beginning a criminal case. It does not create any presumption of guilt; it is merely an accusation. The fact that a person has been indicted does not create any inference, nor is it evidence, that he is guilty of any crime. The presumption of innocence alone is sufficient to acquit a defendant unless you as jurors are satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt of a defendant's guilt of the crimes charged from all the evidence that has been introduced in the case.

The burden is always upon the prosecution to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. This burden never shifts to a defendant for the law never imposes upon a defendant in a criminal case the burden or duty of calling any witnesses or producing any evidence. Unless the government proves, beyond a reasonable doubt, that a defendant committed each and every element of the offense charged against him in the Superseding Indictment, you must find that defendant not guilty of that offense.

There is no burden upon a defendant to prove that he is innocent.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 3.05 (2007) (modified); O'Malley, Grenig and Lee, Federal Jury Practice and Instructions, § 12.10 (5th ed. 2000) (modified); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instructions No. 12.

A reasonable doubt is a doubt based upon reason and common sense, and not the mere possibility of innocence. A reasonable doubt is the kind of doubt that would make a reasonable person hesitate to act. Proof beyond a reasonable doubt, therefore, must be proof of such a convincing character that a reasonable person would not hesitate to rely and act upon it. However, proof beyond a reasonable doubt does not mean proof beyond all possible doubt.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 3.11 (2007); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instructions No. 14.

Counts 1 through 3 of the Superseding Indictment in this case charges that on or about the dates specified below, in Brookings County, in the District of South Dakota, the defendant, William Robert Joseph Reed, a/k/a "sdsuguy87", did knowingly receive or distribute child pornography, as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2256(8), that had been mailed or shipped or transported in interstate or foreign commerce by any means, including by computer, as follows:

Count	Date
1	February 15, 2007
2	February 16, 2007
3	February 18, 2007

all in violation of 18 U.S.C. \S 2252A(a)(2)(A).

between Count 4 of the Superseding Indictment in this case charges that on or about the 14th day of April, 2006, and the 19th day of September, 2007, in Brookings County, in the District of South Dakota, the defendant William Robert Joseph Reed, a/k/a "sdsuguy87", did knowingly possess computer files that contained images of child pornography that had been mailed or shipped or transported in interstate or foreign commerce by any means, including by computer, all in violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 2252A(a)(5)(B) and 2256(8).

The defendant has pleaded not guilty to these charges. There is no burden upon a defendant to prove that he is innocent of the charges against him.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 3.06 (2007) (modified); Indictment; Government's Proposed Instruction No. 1.

Section 2252A(a)(2)(A) of Title 18 of the United States Code provides, in pertinent part, that it is unlawful to:

knowingly receive[] or distribute[] any child pornography that has been mailed, or using any means or facility of interstate or foreign commerce shipped or transported in or affecting interstate or foreign commerce by any means, including by computer;

18 U.S.C. § 2252A(a)(2)(A).

The crime of receipt or distribution of child pornography as charged in Counts 1 through 3 in the Superseding Indictment, has three essential elements, which are:

- One, that on or about February 15, 16, or 18, 2007, the defendant knowingly received or distributed one or more computer files that contained a visual depiction or depictions of child pornography;
- Two, that the defendant knew that the visual depiction or depictions were of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct; and

Three, that the visual depiction or depictions had been transported by computer in interstate or foreign commerce.

You have heard evidence of more than one visual depiction involved in the offense. You must agree unanimously as to which visual depiction or depictions the defendant knowingly received or distributed.

The term "minor" means any person under the age of eighteen years.

The phrase "child pornography" means any visual depiction of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct, where the minor was engaged in the sexually explicit conduct during the production of the depiction.

The term "visual depiction" includes any photograph or picture, whether made or produced by electronic, mechanical, or other means.

The term "sexually explicit conduct" means actual or simulated sexual intercourse, including genital-genital, oral-genital, anal-genital, or oral-anal, whether between persons of the same or opposite sex; masturbation, or lascivious exhibition of the genitals or pubic area of any person.

If all these elements have been proved beyond a reasonable doubt as to the defendant, then you must find the defendant guilty of the crime of receipt or distribution of child pornography; otherwise you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime. 18 U.S.C. § 2252A(a)(2)(A); Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, §§ 3.09; 6.18.2252A (2007) (modified); Government's Proposed Instruction No. 5 (modified); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instructions No. 13.

Section 2252A(a)(5)(B) of Title 18 of the United States Code provides, in pertinent part, that it is unlawful to:

knowingly possess[], or knowingly access[] with intent to view, any book, magazine, periodical, film, videotape, computer disk, or any other material that contains an image of child pornography that has been mailed, or shipped or transported using any means or facility of interstate or foreign commerce or in or affecting interstate or foreign commerce by any means, including by computer;

18 U.S.C. § 2252A(a)(5)(B).

The crime of possession of child pornography as charged in Count 4 of the Superseding Indictment, has three essential elements, which are:

- One, that on or about the 14th day of April, 2006, and the 19th day of September, 2007, in Brookings County, in the District of South Dakota, the defendant knowingly possessed one or more computer files that contained a visual depiction or depictions of child pornography;
- Two, that the defendant knew that the visual depiction or depictions were of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct; and

Three, that the visual depiction or depictions had been transported by computer in interstate or foreign commerce.

You have heard evidence of more than one visual depiction involved in the offense. You must agree unanimously as to which visual depiction or depictions the defendant knowingly possessed.

The term "minor" means any person under the age of eighteen years.

The phrase "child pornography" means any visual depiction of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct, where the minor was engaged in the sexually explicit conduct during the production of the depiction.

The term "visual depiction" includes any photograph or picture, whether made or produced by electronic, mechanical, or other means.

The term "sexually explicit conduct" means actual or simulated sexual intercourse, including genital-genital, oral-genital, or oral-anal, whether between persons of the same or opposite sex; masturbation, or lascivious exhibition of the genitals or pubic area of any person.

If all these elements have been proved beyond a reasonable doubt as to the defendant, then you must find the defendant guilty of the crime of possession of child pornography; otherwise you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, §§ 3.09; 6.18.2252A (2007) (modified); Government's Proposed Instruction No. 1 (modified); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instruction No. 13.

Intent or knowledge may be proved like anything else. You may consider any statements made and acts done by the defendant, and all the facts and circumstances in evidence which may aid in a determination of the defendant's knowledge or intent.

You may, but are not required to, infer that a person intends the natural and probable consequences of acts knowingly done or knowingly omitted.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, §7.05 (2007); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instruction No. 19.

The term "to . . . possess" means to exercise control or authority over something at a given time. The law recognizes several kinds of possession. A person may have actual possession or constructive possession. A person may have sole or joint possession.

The "possession" is considered to be actual possession when a person knowingly has direct physical control or authority over something. The "possession" is called constructive possession when a person does not have direct physical control over something, but can knowingly control it and intends to control it, sometimes through another person.

The "possession" may be knowingly exercised by one person exclusively which is called sole possession; or the "possession" may be knowingly exercised jointly when it is shared by two or more persons.

Whenever the word "possession" has been used in these instructions, it includes actual as well as constructive possession and also sole as well as joint possession.

Possession in a possession of child pornography case requires that the defendant knowingly possessed child pornography.

18 U.S.C. § 2252A(a)(5)(B); Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 6.18.2252A(1) (2007) (modified); Government's Proposed Instruction No. 2 (modified); United States v. Romm, 455 F.3d 990, 1003 (9th Cir. 2006).

Whether a visual depiction of the genitals or pubic area constitutes a lascivious exhibition requires a consideration of the overall content of the material. You may consider such factors as (1) whether the focal point of the picture is on the minor's genitals or pubic area; (2) whether the setting of the picture is sexually suggestive, that is, in a place or pose generally associated with sexual activity; (3) whether the minor is depicted in an unnatural pose or in inappropriate attire, considering the age of the minor; (4) whether the minor is fully or partially clothed, or nude; (5) whether the picture suggests sexual coyness or a willingness to engage in sexual activity; (6) whether the picture is intended or designed to elicit a sexual response in the viewer; (7) whether the picture portrays the minor as a sexual object; and (8) the caption(s) on the picture(s).

It is for you to decide the weight or lack of weight to be given to any of these factors. A picture need not involve all of these factors to constitute a lascivious exhibition of the genitals or pubic area.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, §6.18.2252A(1) (2007); Government's Proposed Instruction No. 3.

The phrase "interstate commerce" means commerce between any combination of states, territories, and possessions of the United States, including the District of Columbia.

The phrase "foreign commerce," as used above, means commerce between any state, territory or possession of the United States and a foreign country.

The term "commerce" includes, among other things, travel, trade, transportation and communication.

Images transmitted or received over the Internet have moved in interstate or foreign commerce. It is for you to determine, however, if the visual depiction or depictions had been transmitted or received over the Internet.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, §6.18.2252A(2) (2007); Government's Proposed Instruction No. 4.

The Superseding Indictment charges that the offense alleged was committed "on or about" certain dates. Although it is necessary for the government to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the offenses were committed on a date reasonably near the date alleged in the Superseding Indictment, it is not necessary for the government to prove that the offenses were committed precisely on the dates charged.

One of the issues in this case is whether the defendant was present at the time and place of the alleged crime. If, after considering all the evidence, you have a reasonable doubt that the defendant was present, then you must find him not guilty.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 9.07 (2007); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instruction No. 20.

In conducting your deliberations and returning your verdict, there are certain rules you must follow. I will list those rules for you now.

First, when you go to the jury room, you must select one of your members as your foreperson. That person will preside over your discussions and speak for you here in court.

Second, it is your duty, as jurors, to discuss this case with one another in the jury room. You should try to reach agreement if you can do so without violence to individual judgment, because your verdicts – whether guilty or not guilty – must be unanimous.

Each of you must make your own conscientious decision, but only after you have considered all the evidence, discussed it fully with your fellow jurors, and listened to the views of your fellow jurors.

Do not be afraid to change your opinions if the discussion persuades you that you should. But do not come to a decision simply because other jurors think it is right, or simply to reach a verdict.

Third, if a Defendant is found guilty, the sentence to be imposed is my responsibility. You may not consider punishment in any way in deciding whether the government has proved its case beyond a reasonable doubt.

Fourth, if you need to communicate with me, you may send a note to me through the marshal, signed by one or more jurors. I will respond as soon as possible either in writing or orally in open court. Remember that you should not tell anyone, including me, how your vote stands numerically.

Fifth, your verdicts must be based solely on the evidence and on the law which I have given to you in my instructions. Nothing I have said or done is intended to suggest what your verdicts should be -- that is entirely for you to decide.

Finally, the verdict form is simply the written notice of the decisions that you reach in this case. You will take this form to the jury room, and when each of you has agreed upon the verdicts, your foreperson will fill in the form, sign and date it, and advise the marshal that you are ready to return to the courtroom.

Eighth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions Criminal, § 3.12 (2007) (modified); Defendant's Proposed Jury Instruction No. 15.

WILLIAM ROBERT JOSEPH REED,	*
Defendant. * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *	* * * * * * *	* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

In view of your verdict that the defendant William Robert Joseph Reed is guilty of the offense[s] alleged in the Superseding Indictment, you must now render a special verdict concerning whether the defendant must forfeit certain property which the government claims is subject to forfeiture to the United States pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2253 because such property was used or intended to be used in the [list the crime(s) for which convicted].

Under federal law, any person who is convicted of [list the crime(s) for which convicted] shall forfeit to the United States "any property, real or personal, used or intended to be used to commit or to promote the commission of such offense or any property traceable to such property."

To be forfeitable, the property need not be used exclusively for illegal activity; property that is used the vast majority of the time for legitimate purposes may nevertheless be forfeited if it facilitates the criminal offense. Facilitation of even a single felony offense is sufficient to justify forfeiture.

You must now consider what verdict to render on the question whether there is a nexus, that is a connection, between property that the asset forfeiture allegation of the Superseding Indictment alleges shall be forfeited to the United States and the offense[s] for which you have already found the defendant William Robert Joseph Reed guilty.

You are instructed, however, that your previous finding that the defendant is guilty of committing the offense[s] alleged in the Superseding Indictment is final, conclusive, and binding. Because you are bound by your previous finding that the defendant is guilty, I direct you not to discuss in your forfeiture deliberations whether the defendant is guilty or not guilty of [list the crime(s) for which convicted].

All of my previous instructions regarding direct and circumstantial evidence, credibility of witnesses, and duty to deliberate apply with respect to your verdict regarding forfeiture.

18 U.S.C. § 2253; Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure 32.2(b)(4).

INSTRUCTION NO. 2

The previous instruction on the United States' standard of proof regarding your verdict on the guilt of the defendant does not apply to your deliberation and verdict regarding forfeiture. In deliberating and deciding your verdict regarding forfeiture, you are instructed that the United States need only prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the property listed in the asset forfeiture allegation of the Superseding Indictment is subject to forfeiture as constituting "any property, real or personal, used or intended to be used to commit or to promote the commission of" [list the crime(s) for which convicted].

You are instructed that in order for the United States to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that the property is subject to forfeiture pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2253, it must prove that it is more likely than not that the property was used or intended to be used to commit or to promote the [list the crime(s) for which convicted] for which the defendant was found guilty.

18 U.S.C. § 2253(a)(2)(3); Libretti v. United States, 516 U.S. 29, 38-39 (1995); United States v. Hasson, 333 F.3d 1264, 1277-78 (11th Cir. 2003); United States v. Bellomo, 176 F.3d 580, 595 (2d Cir. 1999).

While deliberating, you may consider any evidence, including testimony, offered by the parties at any time during the trial.

In determining whether property is subject to forfeiture, you should not consider what might happen to property that is declared forfeited as that is exclusively a matter for the Court to decide. You should disregard any claims that other persons may have to the property. The interests that other persons may have in the property will be taken into account by the Court at a later time. Any claims that the forfeiture of the property would constitute excessive punishment will also be taken into account by the Court at a later time as will the issue regarding whether or not the property is presently available.

Your sole concern now is to determine whether the computer set forth in the forfeiture allegation of the Superseding Indictment was used or intended to be used to commit or to promote the commission of [list the crime(s) for which convicted] for which the defendant was found guilty.

The Special Verdict form lists the property which the United States asserts the defendant should forfeit pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2253 as property used or intended to be used to commit or to promote the [list the crime(s) for which convicted] offense for which the defendant was found guilty. Your verdict on the Special Verdict form must be unanimous.

You may answer by simply putting an "X" or check mark in the space provided next to the words "YES" or "NO." The foreperson must then sign and date the Special Verdict form.
