

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
CENTRAL DIVISION

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Plaintiff, vs. DANIEL GRAY EAGLE, a/k/a Daniel Grey Eagle Defendant.	3:19-CR-30158-RAL FINAL JURY INSTRUCTIONS

Members of the jury, the instructions I gave you at the beginning of the trial and during the trial remain in effect. I now give you some additional instructions. The instructions I am about to give you now are in writing and will be available to you in the jury room.

You must, of course, continue to follow the instructions I gave you earlier, as well as those I give you now. You must not single out some instructions and ignore others, because all are important.

All instructions, whenever given and whether in writing or not, must be followed.

INSTRUCTION NO. 2

It is your duty to find from the evidence what the facts are. You will then apply the law, as I give it to you, to those facts. You must follow my instructions on the law, even if you thought the law was different or should be different.

Do not allow sympathy or prejudice to influence you. The law demands of you a just verdict, unaffected by anything except the evidence, your common sense, and the law as I give it to you.

INSTRUCTION NO. 3

I have mentioned the word “evidence.” The “evidence” in this case consists of the testimony of witnesses, the documents and other things received as exhibits, and the facts that have been stipulated—that is, formally agreed to by the parties.

You may use reason and common sense to draw deductions or conclusions from facts which have been established by the evidence in the case.

Certain things are not evidence. I shall list those things again for you now:

1. Statements, arguments, questions and comments by lawyers representing the parties in the case are not evidence.
2. Objections are not evidence. Lawyers have a right to object when they believe something is improper. You should not be influenced by the objection. If I sustained an objection to a question, you must ignore the question and must not try to guess what the answer might have been.
3. Testimony that I struck from the record, or told you to disregard, is not evidence and must not be considered.
4. Anything you saw or heard about this case outside the courtroom is not evidence.

When you were instructed that evidence was received for a limited purpose, you must follow that instruction.

INSTRUCTION NO. 4

In deciding what the facts are, you may have to decide what testimony you believe and what testimony you do not believe. You may believe all of what a witness said, or only part of it, or none of it.

In deciding what testimony of any witness to believe, consider the witness's intelligence, the opportunity the witness had to have seen or heard the things testified about, the witness's memory, any motives that witness may have for testifying a certain way, the manner of the witness while testifying, whether that witness said something different at an earlier time, the general reasonableness of the testimony, and the extent to which the testimony is consistent with any evidence that you believe.

In deciding whether or not to believe a witness, keep in mind that people sometimes hear or see things differently and sometimes forget things. You need to consider, therefore, whether a contradiction is an innocent misrecollection or lapse of memory or an intentional falsehood, and that may depend on whether it has to do with an important fact or only a small detail.

INSTRUCTION NO. 5

The superseding indictment in this case charges the defendant with one count of conspiracy to distribute a controlled substance and two counts of possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute. The defendant has pleaded not guilty to these charges.

The superseding indictment is simply the document that formally charges the defendant with the crimes for which he is on trial. The superseding indictment is not evidence of anything. At the beginning of the trial, I instructed you that you must presume the defendant to be innocent. Thus, the defendant began the trial with a clean slate, with no evidence against him. The presumption of innocence alone is sufficient to find the defendant not guilty. This presumption can be overcome only if the United States proved during the trial, beyond a reasonable doubt, each element of the crimes charged.

Keep in mind that each count charges a separate crime. You must consider each count separately and return a separate verdict for each count.

Please remember that only the defendant, not anyone else, is on trial here, and that the defendant is on trial only for the crimes charged, not for anything else.

There is no burden upon a defendant to prove that he is innocent. Instead, the burden of proof remains on the United States throughout the trial. Accordingly, the fact that the defendant did not testify must not be considered by you in any way, or even discussed, in arriving at your verdict.

INSTRUCTION NO. 6

The crime of conspiracy to distribute or to possess with the intent to distribute 500 grams or more of a mixture or substance containing a detectable amount of methamphetamine, as charged in Count I of the superseding indictment, has four essential elements, which are:

One*, that beginning at a time unknown but no later than on or about the 1st day of January, 2017, and continuing to on or about the 7th day of February, 2020, in the District of South Dakota and elsewhere, two or more persons reached an agreement or came to an understanding to distribute or to possess with the intent to distribute methamphetamine, a Schedule II controlled substance;

Methamphetamine is a Schedule II controlled substance.

Two*, the defendant, Daniel Gray Eagle, voluntarily and intentionally joined in the agreement or understanding, either at the time it was first reached or at some later time while it was still in effect;

Three*, at the time the defendant joined in the agreement or understanding, he knew the purpose of the agreement or understanding; and

Four*, the agreement or understanding involved 500 grams or more of a mixture or substance containing a detectable amount of methamphetamine.

If you find unanimously that the government has proved these four elements beyond a reasonable doubt as to the defendant, then you must find the defendant guilty of the crime of conspiracy to distribute 500 grams or more of a mixture or substance containing a detectable amount of methamphetamine. Otherwise, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.

If you do not unanimously find all four elements beyond a reasonable doubt, but you do find the first three elements unanimously and beyond a reasonable doubt, you must go on to consider whether the defendant conspired to distribute some lesser amount of methamphetamine. If you find the defendant conspired to distribute an amount of methamphetamine less than 500 grams but more than 50 grams, then you must find the defendant guilty of the crime of conspiracy to distribute 50 grams or more of a mixture or substance containing methamphetamine. If you unanimously find that the defendant conspired to distribute an amount of methamphetamine less than 50 grams beyond a reasonable doubt, you must find the defendant guilty of the crime of conspiracy to distribute methamphetamine. Otherwise, you must find the defendant not guilty.

INSTRUCTION NO. 7

The quantity of the controlled substances involved in the agreement or understanding includes the controlled substances the defendant possessed for personal use or distributed or agreed to distribute. The quantity also includes the controlled substances fellow conspirators distributed or agreed to distribute, if you find that those distributions or agreements to distribute were a necessary or natural consequence of the agreement or understanding and were reasonably foreseeable by the defendant.

Do not double count any quantities of methamphetamine if more than one co-conspirator was involved in conspiring to distribute that particular quantity of methamphetamine. Instead, you must determine the amount of methamphetamine involved in the conspiracy for which the defendant can be held responsible.

INSTRUCTION NO. 8

To find the existence of a “conspiracy,” the government must prove two or more persons reached an agreement or understanding to distribute or to possess with the intent to distribute methamphetamine. It makes no difference whether those persons are named in the superseding indictment.

To assist you in determining whether there was an agreement or understanding to conspire to distribute or to possess with the intent to distribute methamphetamine, you should consider the elements of a “distribution” offense. The elements of distributing methamphetamine are: (1) a person intentionally distributed methamphetamine to another; and (2) at the time of the distribution, the person knew that what he or she was distributing was methamphetamine.

To find the defendant guilty of the “conspiracy” charged against him, you do not have to find the offense of distribution of methamphetamine was actually committed by the defendant or anyone else. It is the agreement to distribute methamphetamine which is illegal. The agreement is the conduct which has been charged in the superseding indictment and which must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt to establish the defendant’s guilt on the offense charged in Count I of the superseding indictment.

The “agreement” or “understanding” need not be an express or formal agreement, or be in writing, or cover all the details of how the conspiracy was to be carried out. It is not necessary that the members have directly stated between themselves the details or purpose of the conspiracy.

Merely being present at the scene of an event, or merely acting in the same way as others, or merely associating with others, does not prove the defendant has joined in an agreement or understanding. Similarly, the defendant’s mere knowledge of the existence of a conspiracy or his mere association with an individual engaged in the illegal conduct of a conspiracy is not enough to prove he joined the conspiracy. The defendant’s mere knowledge that an objective of a conspiracy was considered or attempted or his mere approval of the purpose of a conspiracy, is not enough to prove that he joined the conspiracy.

A person who has no knowledge of a conspiracy, but who happens to act in a way which advances some purpose of the conspiracy, does not thereby become a member of that conspiracy. The defendant must know of the existence and purpose of the conspiracy. Without such knowledge, the defendant cannot be guilty of conspiracy, even if his acts furthered the conspiracy.

On the other hand, a person may join in an agreement or understanding without knowing all the details of the agreement or understanding, and without knowing all the other members of the conspiracy. Further, it is not necessary that a person agree to play any particular part in carrying out the agreement or understanding. A person may become a member of a conspiracy even if that person agrees to play only a minor part in the conspiracy, as long as that person has an understanding of the unlawful nature of the plan and voluntarily and intentionally joins in it.

In deciding whether the defendant voluntarily and intentionally joined in the agreement, you must consider only evidence of the defendant’s own actions and statements. You may not consider actions and statements of others, except to the extent any statement of another describes something which was said or done by the defendant.

INSTRUCTION NO. 9

If you determine that an agreement existed and that the defendant joined the agreement, you may consider acts knowingly done and statements knowingly made by a defendant's co-conspirators during the existence of the conspiracy and in furtherance of the conspiracy as evidence pertaining to the defendant even though the acts or statements were done or made in the absence of and without the knowledge of the defendant. This includes acts done or statements made before the defendant joined the agreement, because a person who knowingly, voluntarily and intentionally joins an existing conspiracy becomes responsible for all of the conduct of the co-conspirators from the beginning of the conspiracy.

INSTRUCTION NO. 10

To the extent it may be helpful in your deliberations, one ounce is the equivalent of 28.35 grams and one pound is the equivalent of 453.59 grams.

INSTRUCTION NO. 11

The crime of possession of methamphetamine with the intent to distribute, as charged in Count II of the superseding indictment, has three elements, which are:

One*, on or about the 22nd day of January, 2018, the defendant was in possession of methamphetamine;

Two*, the defendant knew that he was in possession of methamphetamine; and

Three*, the defendant intended to distribute some or all of the methamphetamine to another person.

If you find unanimously that the government has proved these three elements beyond a reasonable doubt as to the defendant, then you must find the defendant guilty of this crime. Otherwise, you must find the defendant not guilty of this offense.

INSTRUCTION NO. 12

The crime of possession of methamphetamine with the intent to distribute, as charged in Count III of the superseding indictment, has three elements, which are:

One, on or about the 1st day of March, 2018, the defendant was in possession of methamphetamine;

Two, the defendant knew that he was in possession of methamphetamine; and

Three, the defendant intended to distribute some or all of the methamphetamine to another person.

If you find unanimously that the government has proved these three elements beyond a reasonable doubt as to the defendant, then you must find the defendant guilty of this crime. Otherwise, you must find the defendant not guilty of this offense.

INSTRUCTION NO. 13

If your verdict on Count III of the superseding indictment is not guilty, or if, after all reasonable efforts, you are unable to reach a verdict on Count III, you should record that decision on the verdict form and go on to consider whether the defendant is guilty of the crime of simple possession of a controlled substance under this instruction. The crime of simple possession of a controlled substance, a lesser included offense to Count III as it is charged in the superseding indictment, has two elements, which are:

One, on or about the 1st day of March, 2018, the defendant was in possession of methamphetamine; and

Two, the defendant knew that he was in possession of methamphetamine.

For you to find the defendant guilty of this crime, a lesser included offense to Count III of the superseding indictment, the government must prove both elements beyond a reasonable doubt; otherwise you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.

INSTRUCTION NO. 14

The law recognizes several kinds of possession. A person may have actual possession or constructive possession. A person may have sole or joint possession.

A person who knowingly has direct physical control over a thing, at a given time, is then in actual possession of it.

A person who, although not in actual possession, has both the power and the intention at a given time to exercise dominion or control over a thing, either directly or through another person or persons, is then in constructive possession of it.

If one person alone has actual or constructive possession of a thing, possession is sole. If two or more persons share actual or constructive possession of a thing, possession is joint.

Whenever the word “possession” has been used in these instructions, it includes actual as well as constructive possession and also sole as well as joint possession.

INSTRUCTION NO. 15

“Intent” and “knowledge” are elements of the offenses charged in this case and must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt. The government is not required to prove a defendant knew that his acts or omissions were unlawful. An act is done “knowingly” if a person realizes what he is doing and does not act through ignorance, mistake, or accident. You may consider the evidence of a defendant’s words, acts, or omissions, along with all other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant acted knowingly.

Intent or knowledge may be proved like anything else. You may consider any statements made and acts done by the defendant in connection with the offense charged. You may also consider all the facts and circumstances in evidence which may aid in a determination of the defendant’s knowledge or intent.

You may, but are not required to, infer that a person intends the natural and probable consequences of acts knowingly done or knowingly omitted.

INSTRUCTION NO. 16

You have heard evidence that the defendant may have possessed a firearm. The defendant is not charged with any crimes relating to firearms. The mere fact that the defendant may have possessed a firearm does not mean that he is thereby guilty of conspiracy to distribute methamphetamine or possession with intent to distribute methamphetamine.

INSTRUCTION NO. 17

You may also consider any evidence of flight by the defendant, along with all of the evidence in the case, and you may consider whether this evidence shows a consciousness of guilt and determine the significance to be attached to any such conduct.

Whether or not evidence of flight shows a consciousness of guilt and the significance to be attached to any such evidence are matters exclusively within the province of the jury. In your consideration of evidence of flight, you should consider that there may be reasons for this which are fully consistent with innocence.

INSTRUCTION NO. 18

You have heard testimony from witnesses who made plea agreements with the government, received promises they would not be prosecuted further, or received promises their testimony will not be used against them. Such testimony was received in evidence and may be considered by you. You may give this testimony such weight as you think it deserves. Whether or not this testimony may have been influenced by any plea agreements or the government's promises is for you to decide.

Any witness's guilty plea or conviction of a crime cannot be considered by you as any evidence of this defendant's guilt. The witness's guilty plea or conviction can be considered by you only for the purpose of determining how much, if at all, to rely upon the witness's testimony.

INSTRUCTION NO. 19

You have heard evidence from witnesses who hope to receive a reduced sentence on certain criminal charges in return for their cooperation with the government in this case. If the United States Attorney's Office decides that a witness convicted of a federal offense who entered into a cooperation agreement provided substantial assistance through what the United States Attorney believes was truthful testimony, then the United States Attorney may bring what is called a Rule 35 Motion for the sentencing Court to reduce the sentence. If such a motion is filed, the sentencing Court then decides whether to reduce the sentence or not and how much to reduce the sentence, and it may, or may choose not to, reduce it below a mandatory minimum.

You may give the testimony of these witnesses such weight as you think it deserves. Whether or not the testimony may have been influenced by his or her hope of receiving a reduced sentence is for you to determine.

INSTRUCTION NO. 20

You have heard testimony from an individual described as an expert. Persons who, by knowledge, skill, training, education, or experience, have become an expert in some field may state their opinions on matters in that field and may also state the reasons for their opinion.

Expert testimony should be considered just like any other testimony. You may accept or reject it, and give it as much weight as you think it deserves, considering the witness's education and experience, the soundness of the reasons given for the opinion, the acceptability of the methods used, and all the other evidence in the case.

INSTRUCTION NO. 21

The superseding indictment charges that the offense alleged in Count I was committed “beginning at a time unknown” but no later than on or about January 1, 2017, and continuing to on or about February 7, 2020. The superseding indictment charges that the offense in Count II was committed on or about January 22, 2018, and that the offense in Count III was committed on or about March 1, 2018. It is enough for the government to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the offenses were committed on a date reasonably near or within the dates alleged in the indictment. It is not necessary for the government to prove that the offenses were committed precisely on the dates charged.

INSTRUCTION NO. 22

Reasonable doubt is doubt based upon reason and common sense, and not doubt based on speculation. A reasonable doubt may arise from careful and impartial consideration of all the evidence, or from a lack of evidence. Proof beyond a reasonable doubt is proof of such a convincing character that a reasonable person, after careful consideration, would not hesitate to rely and act upon that proof in life's most important decisions. Proof beyond a reasonable doubt is proof that leaves you firmly convinced of the defendant's guilt. Proof beyond a reasonable doubt does not mean proof beyond all possible doubt.

INSTRUCTION NO. 23

In conducting your deliberations and returning your verdict, there are certain rules you must follow. I shall list those rules for you now.

First, when you go to the jury room, you must select one of your members as your foreperson. That person will preside over your discussions and speak for you here in court.

Second, it is your duty, as jurors, to discuss this case with one another in the jury room. You should try to reach agreement if you can do so without violence to individual judgment, because a verdict—whether guilty or not guilty—must be unanimous. Each of you must make your own conscientious decision, but only after you have considered all the evidence, discussed it fully with your fellow jurors, and listened to the views of your fellow jurors. Do not be afraid to change your opinions if the discussion persuades you that you should. But do not come to a decision simply because other jurors think it is right, or simply to reach a verdict.

Third, if the defendant is found guilty, the sentence to be imposed is my responsibility. You may not consider punishment in any way in deciding whether the United States has proved its case beyond a reasonable doubt.

Fourth, if you need to communicate with me during your deliberations, you may send a note to me through the marshal or court security officer, signed by one or more jurors. I will respond as soon as possible either in writing or orally in open court. Remember that you should not tell anyone—including me—how your votes stand numerically.

Fifth, during your deliberations, you must not communicate with or provide any information to anyone other than by note to me by any means about this case. You may not use any electronic device or media, such as a telephone, cell phone, smart phone, iPhone, Blackberry, or computer; the internet, any internet service, or any text or instant messaging service; or any internet chat room, blog, or website such as Facebook, Snapchat, Instagram, YouTube, or Twitter, to communicate to anyone information about this case or to conduct any research about this case until I accept your verdict.

Sixth, your verdict must be based solely on the evidence and on the law which I have given to you in my instructions. Nothing I have said or done is intended to suggest what your verdict should be—that is entirely for you to decide.

Finally, the verdict form is simply the written notice of the decision that you reach in this case. You will take this form to the jury room, and when each of you has agreed on the verdict, your foreperson will fill in the form, sign and date it, and advise the marshal or court security officer that you are ready to return to the courtroom.
